

Beard Champion and YouTube Personality Release Visual Novelette about Spam

Dear Sir or Madam, my name is Funmini Owo. I am a prince from Nigeria. I am currently being held hostage and I need your assistance...

Teaser trailer: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=JKmmCckz0fU>

Meet Caitlin. She's a girl just like you. She likes videogames and checking her e-mail—you know, like the cool kids do. But one day, her life changes when she gets an e-mail from the deposed prince of Nigeria. Can she save him? Will they find love? Or will her feelings end up...in the spam folder?

Key features:

- A short visual novelette about spam e-mail and the people who send it.
- Seven (!?) different endings to unlock! Whoa!
- Hand-drawn art! (Like, literally; it was drawn on paper and scanned into a computer.)
- Story by popular YouTube personality Michael "arglefumph" Gray.
- (Seriously it's super short. Maybe go outside after playing it?)

My Nigerian Prince is the first release by Oh, a Rock! Studios, an indie game-development studio/loosely connected group of friends that makes funny, weird, sincere adventure games and visual novelettes. It was founded in 2014 by award-winning beard enthusiast Paul Franzen, who also served as lead writer/designer on Moment Games' seminal ramen-based adventure game, Life in the Dorms.

It's coming out on itch.io TOMORROW, December 5th, and it costs a dollar! (That's roughly 14 cents per ending, btw.)

For more information (and for screenshots, etc.), you can check out our shiny new website or poke us on Facebook or Twitter. We're also available for interviews, podcasts, or maybe to take that extra ticket to the big game off your hands, just saying. Drop us a line!

Contact

Paul Franzen

Studio head (Oh, a Rock! Studios)

paul@oharock.com